Christian Figueroa is an experienced political activist, communications professional, engineer, and B.A. candidate studying history at Stanford University.

Most notably, Christian is the current National Press Secretary of the College Democrats of America, the national collegiate branch of the Democratic National Committee. Throughout his career, he has fought for LGBTQ+ rights and youth voter engagement through nonprofit organizations and elected offices, including his most current organizing roles with Youth Save Democracy and the Biden for President reelection campaign, and his candidacy for membership to the Democratic National Committee in 2023.

At Stanford, he is an appointed committee member within both the Office of the Provost and the Office of Community Standards, has academic interests in both history and communication, and is an officer for multiple student clubs. His words are featured in the Stanford Report, The Stanford Daily, America Magazine, and KGEM-TV.

He will be a future intern in the Office of Los Angeles Mayor Karen Bass, is a current intern at Stanford University, and was a former intern at the California Democratic Party and The Boeing Company. He is a brother in the Sigma Alpha Epsilon (###) fraternity, and is notable on social media for his political involvement.
