Stanford

Youssef Allouah

Graduate Visiting Researcher Student, Computer Science

Bio

BIO

Youssef Allouah is a visiting researcher at Stanford University, and a third-year PhD student at EPFL. He previously graduated from Ecole polytechnique in Mathematics and Computer Science in 2021, with a research internship at Amazon. His research interests lie in trustworthy machine learning, with a focus on the theoretical aspects of robustness and privacy in distributed settings.