

Caroline Belka

Graduate, Economics

Bio

---

BIO

Caroline Belka is a Predoctoral Fellow at the Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research. After completing her Bachelor's degree in economics at the University of Munich (LMU), she pursued the Data Science Methodology Master's at the Barcelona School of Economics and graduated in July 2024. Besides being deeply interested in statistics and machine learning, her research interests lie in applied microeconomics, econometric methods, and their application to healthcare markets and policies.