

Stanford

Cindy Kim

Clinical Research Coordinator Associate, Neurology

Bio

BIO

Hello, Thank you for connecting with me through my profile. I developed a passion for health and wellness early in life which led me to pursue a B.S. in Health Education with an emphasis in Community Health. My direct patient care experience further solidified my dedication to improving patient outcomes and deepened my understanding of the healthcare system. Driven by my desire to expand my impact, I transitioned into my current role as Clinical Research Coordinator Associate at the Stanford Stroke Center, focusing on advancing the ability to predict stroke risks and improve patient health through the lens of research.

EDUCATION AND CERTIFICATIONS

- B.S., San Francisco State University , Health Education, emphasis in Community Health