Stanford

Nicole Stigler

Life Science Research Professional 1, Psych/General Psychiatry and Psychology (Adult)

Bio

BIO

Nicole received her B.S. in Neuroscience and Psychology from the University of Wisconsin–Madison, where she led research on the neural circuitry of sustained attention and the reinforcing properties of ketamine metabolites. She is passionate about identifying the cell-type specific circuits supporting motivated behavior and stress resilience to improve health outcomes.