Executive Director, Finance, Facilities & Planning, University Librarian's Office

I oversee finance, facilities, and planning for Stanford University Libraries, acting as the principal steward of the Libraries' fiscal and physical assets. The functional areas for which I am responsible include financial operations, budget planning, contract and grant administration, capital planning, and facilities services. I provide input and guidance to the leadership team on the Libraries' overall financial position and strategic direction. The overarching goal of my finance team and facilities team is to ensure the prudent and effective management of university and organizational resources, while providing excellent service and support to all library staff.
