

Stanford

Jiang Bian

Ph.D. Student in Management Science and Engineering, admitted Autumn 2014

Bio

BIO

Jiang Bian is a PhD student at the Stanford Technology Ventures Program (STVP) in the Department of Management Science & Engineering at Stanford University.

Research Area: Innovation and Entrepreneurship

Research Abstract:

Jiang's research interests lie at the intersection of organizations, innovation and corporate strategy. Particularly, she's interested in how inter-organizational relationships affect firm competence and performance. Jiang holds a BS in Management and a BA in English from Tianjin University, China, as well as an MS in Civil and Environmental Engineering from Stanford University. Before joining STVP, Jiang worked in a variety of roles including risk analyst, regional risk manager and strategic consultant, providing management consulting services to public agencies, corporations and financial institutions in infrastructure project development, procurement, financing and investment.

STANFORD ADVISORS

- Riitta Katila, Doctoral Dissertation Advisor (AC)