

Theresa Iker

Lecturer

History

Bio

BIO

Theresa Iker specializes in modern American politics, gender, and culture. She received her Ph.D. in History and minor in Feminist, Gender, and Sexuality Studies (FGSS) from Stanford University in 2023, where she now serves as a School of Humanities and Sciences lecturer in the COLLEGE program and Department of History.

ACADEMIC APPOINTMENTS

- Lecturer, History

Teaching

COURSES

2023-24

- Doing Gender History: HISTORY 200GH (Spr)
- Sex and Sexuality in America: HISTORY 263 (Win)
- Taylor Swift and Millennial America: HISTORY 262A (Spr)
- The Politics of Sex: Gender, Race, and Sexuality in Modern America: AMSTUD 161, CSRE 162, FEMGEN 161, FEMGEN 61, HISTORY 161, HISTORY 61 (Win)
- Why College? Your Education and the Good Life: COLLEGE 101 (Aut)

2022-23

- The Politics of Sex: Gender, Race, and Sex in Modern America: AMSTUD 161, CSRE 162, FEMGEN 161, FEMGEN 61, HISTORY 161, HISTORY 61 (Spr)

2020-21

- Contested Masculinities in Modern America: FEMGEN 255B, HISTORY 255B (Win)