PERSONAL STATEMENT

I am a behavioral scientist studying nutrition policies such as warning labels, beverage taxes, and food assistance programs. My research mission is to promote the thoughtful design and implementation of interventions that improve diet, prevent disease, and advance health equity. My work uses randomized trials, quasi-experiments, and simulation modeling.

ACADEMIC HISTORY

Education

| | | |
|---------|------|--|
| 05/2019 | PhD | Health Behavior, University of North Carolina Gillings School of Global Public Health |
| 12/2016 | MSPH | Health Behavior, University of North Carolina Gillings School of Global Public Health |
| 06/2011 | BA | Human Biology, Stanford University Awarded with University Distinction and Departmental Honors |

Fellowship Training

| | | |
|-------------------|----------------------|--|
| 09/2021 – 05/2022 | Postdoctoral Fellow | Department of Nutrition, Harvard TH Chan School of Public Health |
| 09/2019 – 08/2021 | David E. Bell Fellow | Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies, Harvard TH Chan School of Public Health |

PROFESSIONAL APPOINTMENTS

Academic Appointments

|-------------------|---------------------|--|
| 03/2023 – | Assistant Professor | Department of Pediatrics and (by courtesy) Department of Health Policy, Stanford University School of Medicine |
| 12/2022 – 02/2023 | Instructor | Department of Pediatrics, Stanford University School of Medicine |
| 06/2022 – 11/2022 | Research Scientist | Department of Nutrition, Harvard TH Chan School of Public Health |
| 07/2019 – 11/2022 | Research Fellow | Department of Population Medicine, Harvard Medical School and Harvard Pilgrim Health Care Institute |

HONORS AND AWARDS

|------|--|
| 2023 | Jules Hirsch Innovation Award, The Obesity Society (recognizes an early-career investigator whose novel work will significantly impact the field of obesity) |
| 2021 | Finalist, CGS/ProQuest Distinguished Dissertation Award in the Social Sciences (selected as one of top three social science dissertations nationally) |

- 2020 Dean's Distinguished Dissertation Award for Social Sciences, University of North Carolina Chapel Hill (highest award for dissertation research at UNC)
- 2019 First Place, Emerging Leaders in Nutrition Science Poster Competition, Policy Section, American Society for Nutrition
- 2018 First Place, Epidemiology and Population Health Section Student and Trainee Poster Competition, The Obesity Society
- 2018 Health Behavior Travel Competition Award, University of North Carolina Chapel Hill
- 2018 Finalist, Graduate Student Research Award, American Society for Nutrition
- 2018 First Place, Emerging Leaders in Nutrition Science, Nutrition Epidemiology Section, American Society for Nutrition
- 2017 Future Faculty Fellowship Program, University of North Carolina Chapel Hill
- 2017 Second Place, Emerging Leaders in Nutrition Science, Nutrition Epidemiology Section, American Society for Nutrition
- 2017 Travel Award, Jo Anne L. Earp Scholarship Fund in Health Behavior, University of North Carolina Chapel Hill
- 2016 Travel Award, Jo Anne L. Earp Scholarship Fund in Health Behavior, University of North Carolina Chapel Hill
- 2015 Travel Award, Jo Anne L. Earp Scholarship Fund in Health Behavior, University of North Carolina Chapel Hill
- 2011 JE Wallace Sterling Award for Scholastic Achievement (awarded to the top 25 graduating students in the School of Humanities and Sciences), Stanford University
- 2011 Joshua Lederberg Award for Excellence in Human Biology (awarded to graduating seniors with above a 4.0 GPA), Stanford University
- 2011 Elected Member, Phi Beta Kappa, Stanford University
- 2011 Best Student Poster, Undergraduate Session, American Public Health Association Annual Meeting
- 2011 Finalist, Firestone Medal for Excellence in Undergraduate Research, Stanford University
- 2011 Center for Teaching and Learning Award for Excellence in Honors Presentations in Human Biology, Stanford University
- 2009 Outstanding Presentation Award at the Fall Forum on Community Health and Public Service, Stanford University

2008 Psychology One Scholar, Stanford University

2008 Boothe Prize for Excellence in Writing in the Freshman Year, Stanford University

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Consultations and Collaborations with Policymakers, Advocates, and Community Groups

- 2019 – 2021 New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (NYC DOHMH)
 In partnership with NYC DOHMH, our research team assessed the potential for a minimum price law for sugary drinks to reduce sugary drink consumption, obesity, and obesity disparities in NYC. For the project, I developed and applied a microsimulation model of dietary behaviors and weight outcomes over five years. We then produced an interim report, final report, and policy briefs to provide guidance to NYC about minimum price laws for sugary drinks, including the impact of different policy design options (e.g., higher vs. lower price floors).
- 2019 – 2020 FIRST 5 Santa Clara County
 Our team partnered with FIRST 5 Santa Clara County, a nonprofit focused on health and development during the first five years of life, to evaluate a popular children's book Potter the Otter: A Tale About Water. FIRST 5 developed the book to promote healthy beverage consumption among young children and has disseminated the book widely, including through pediatric clinics and the Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) program. We evaluated the impact of this book in a randomized experiment with more than 2,000 parents of children ages 2-5 years. Results showed that exposure to the book promoted healthier attitudes, beliefs, and behavioral intentions regarding the beverages parents serve their children, with no disparities in benefits across population groups. These findings support the continued use of Potter the Otter books for promoting healthy beverage consumption.

- 2019 – 2020 City and County of San Francisco
I have provided expert consultation to City officials and partner organizations regarding the design and impact of sugary drink health warnings. These discussions informed the design of the City’s revised sugary drink health warnings ordinance (Ordinance No. 26-20, passed March 2020).
