MAJOR GLOBAL HEALTH ACTIVITIES

2014-current PI, USAID Quality Health Service (QHS)
2014-2015 Senior Technical Advisor, USAID QHS

Stanford-URC

Cambodia

- Served as the Senior Technical Advisor for USAID's Quality Health Services project in program years 1 and 2 of the project. The program aims to improve reproductive, maternal, newborn and child health and nutrition (RMNCHN) services in all health centers (550+) and referral hospitals (38+) in nine Cambodian provinces. In addition, I served as the Team Leader for the Emergency Medicine and Referrals component on the project. Having completed the Senior TA role, I continue to serve as the lead for Stanford's role as a partner on QHS.

2015-current Co-Director, Emergency Medicine Physician Diploma Course

Stanford-Golden-Zaneka

Myanmar

- Designed and developed an 18-month blended learning training program for non-residency trained physicians working in emergency and critical care settings.

2013-current Director (2013-2015) Co-Director (2016-current), On-Line Medical Research (OLMR)

Stanford-GVK EMRI

India

- Designed and developed a prospective research program that conducts quality of care research for the Indian EMS system. The program operates in up to seven states across India evaluating prehospital care metrics and outcomes for high-impact chief complaints.

2013-2017 Director, EMT Continuing Education Courses

Stanford-GVK EMRI

India

- Designed and developed a series of educational programs aimed at improving knowledge and performance of currently practicing prehospital Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs). Performance gaps in managing both adult and pediatric patients were researched and training programs designed to augment the training of currently practicing EMTs. Initiation of the train the trainer program began in 2013 and series of CE courses have been running since 2014 to over 19,000 EMTs.

2012-2015 Visiting Professor Program, Emergency Medical Services

King Saud University

Saudi Arabia

- Design and develop prehospital emergency medical services care training curricula for cardiology, advanced life support, critical care, toxicology, hematology, and genitourinary emergencies along with faculty development program.

2014-2015 Co-Director, Graduate Medical Training in Emergency Medicine

Stanford-Mongolia National University

Mongolia

- Directed an online educational program to teach medical students and faculty key emergency medicine and critical care concepts.

2013-2014 Director, Surgery 210 and Graduate Medical Training in EM

Stanford-Makerere University

Uganda/Global

- Designed online educational program to teach medical students and trainees key emergency medicine and critical care concepts. The course was rolled out to medical students in both Uganda and the US simultaneously in early 2014. The program is now being run in other countries across Asia.

2011-2013 Co-PI, USAID Better Health Services

Stanford-URC

Cambodia

- Under a sub-agreement to the Better Health Services USAID grant, Stanford designed and supported implementation of programs aimed at improving the delivery of emergency care in Cambodia. Specifically, we designed a novel triage system for use in the developing world that is being rolled out across Cambodia and we developed physician and staff education programs aimed at teaching core emergency medicine and critical care concepts in a practical manner.

2011-2013 Director, Pediatric EM District Hospital Course

Stanford-GVK EMRI

India

- Developed a 1-week educational program for non-emergency medicine trained physicians that encounter children in emergency settings in India. The program was designed in conjunction with GVK EMRI to combat the health disparities existing for children in non-urban areas.

2010-2012 Director, Life Support in Obstetrics India Courses

Stanford-GVK EMRI-ALSO

India

- Coordinated efforts to initiate training in Advanced and Basic Life Support in Obstetrics (ALSO, BLSO) in India. Facilitated agreement between the American Academy of Family Physicians and GVK EMRI to train prehospital, emergency department, and obstetric care providers in obstetric and newborn care. Over 15,000 EMTs have been trained in BLSO along with hundreds of physicians in ALSO.

2009-2012 Director, EM District Hospital Courses

Stanford-GVK EMRI

India

- Designed and developed 2-day to 1-week educational programs for non-emergency medicine trained physicians working in emergency settings in India. The program was designed in conjunction with GVK EMRI in India to combat the significant health disparities existing in non-urban areas.

2009-2012 Director, EMS Protocol Development and Course

Stanford-GVK EMRI

India

- Designed and developed prehospital emergency medical services care protocols for use in India.

An educational program was designed to introduce the materials across 15+ states across India. These protocols and supplementary educational material are used to provide prehospital emergency care to >750 million people across India.

2010-2011 Advisor, EMS and EM Residency Development

Black Lion Hospital-University of Wisconsin-Ethiopian MOH Ethiopia

- Advised Ethiopian MOH on the design of a national Emergency Medical Services (EMS) system in addition to serving as guest faculty and advisor for the Black Lion Emergency Medicine Residency training program.

2008-2010 Faculty Advisor: Stanford-India Biodesign Program

Stanford-India California

- Provide mentorship and education to Fellows in the Stanford-India Biodesign program. This includes lectures, clinical observation, and review of concepts and design ideas.

2007-2010 Course Director, EMT-P International

Stanford-GVK EMRI India

- GVK EMRI with support from Stanford EM International have developed a 2-year post-graduate program in prehospital care. We designed the curriculum and trained the first group of paramedics and paramedic instructors and continue to provide course updates.

2010 Course Director, EMT International

Stanford-Nepal Ambulance Service (NAS) Nepal

- Stanford and NAS partnered to launch Nepal's first comprehensive emergency response system. Stanford developed a 3-month program in prehospital care and trained the first group of EMTs and EMT instructors.

2006-2007 Course Director, EMT-I International

Apollo Hospital Systems India

- We developed and implemented a novel EMT-Intermediate training course for the largest private health care provider in India, Apollo Hospital Systems.

2005 Trainer of Physician Educators

National Training Institute, Ministry of Health Egypt

- Trained 40 emergency medicine doctors to become physician educators in management and emergency procedures for trauma patients.

2005 Health Care Instructor

Bali International Medical Center Indonesia

- Trained hospital staff and physician in the care of emergency patients.
